

PLAYING LET IT RIDE

Minimums and maximums, and maximum payouts are posted at the table.

LET IT RIDE

This exciting variation of five-card stud Poker is easy to learn and fun to play. Each Player receives three cards and the Dealer receives two cards. The Dealer's two cards are community cards that all Players use to make their best five-card Poker hand. In this game, the Players are not playing against each other or against the House, they are wagering that they will have a pair of tens or better. Players may bet an optional side wager based on the value of their own 3 card hand.

Each Player must place three separate and equal wagers per round. After looking at their cards, the Player may elect to stay in until the end (Let It Ride) or they can signal to have the Dealer push back their bet on Circle 1.

Once the first community card has been revealed, the Player will decide if they wish to signal to have the Dealer push back their second bet or stay in until the end. There are no additional cards drawn in this game.

After the two community cards are exposed, the Player in order to receive a payout, must have a pair of tens or better between their three cards and the two community cards. The odds vary depending on the winning hand attained by the Player.

Note: Maximum aggregate payout of $75,000 per round.
